CATCHING THINGS

NOVEL SCIENTIFIC SUGGESTION BY J. C. SHERER, CITY CLERK

I confess to not having gone very deeply into science; true I have read in a dilentante way the works of Darwin and Mary Baker Eddy, but always I found something wanting either on the part of the author or the reader, and only modesty prevents me from saying which. At the same time there are certain facts which seem to be generally admitted and one of these, stated in my own crude way, is that our human bodies are composed of molecules, germs and a lot of other small things which when properly assembled by the Great Architect, we call man or woman as the case may be.

A lot of these molecules seem to be put in just for filling, yet they are possessed of a wonderful potentiality. They stay passive for many years perhaps and don't seem to have anything in particular to do but watchfully to wait, and then some day the call comes to mobilize, and zip—the whole human anatomy becomes the slave of the little inconspicuous creature and the whole piece of machinery has to stop everything else and take orders from this infinitesimal atom of energy. It is as if every molecule was tuned to the key of high C, and when somewhere out of the universe comes floating an impulse that has been started on a similar plane, it gathers to it every other sympathetic atom in its path and there begins to be "something doing."

If it is a purely physical manifestation we call it mumps, measles, whooping cough or some other familiar name and let it go at that. Those of us who are so old-fashioned as to believe in the existence of these things call in the doctor, or leave it to our friends to order the undertaker, and accept them as a matter of course. But it is the mental manifestations that are most interesting and none the less numerous as examples of what an insignificant little blub of a molecule can do when it settles down to business. These manifestations are called by such an eminent authority as Prof. Wilson "psychological" and he may be right, but I don't know.

As a boy at school I remember we all caught the "marble" playing fever, which had run its course and was followed by another wave that swept every mother's son of us into the wild excesses of "mumble-tepeg," to be followed after an interval by kite flying or some other pastime.

When the boy becomes a man or the girl grows into the woman, these childish manifestations usually cease as the molecules of that particular brand have become exhausted and other atoms, located in the brain most likely are set for the wave from high C. They are pretty sure to get into the current sometime. It may be a wave of Billy Sundayism, a movement for the abolition of something or other, or the creation of something else, a wild spasm for the reformation of the other fellow by legal mechanical means, a political cure-all guaranteed brand new, spiritualism, hypnotism, or an automatic scheme of religion which will work while you sleep and get you into Heaven "on flowery beds of ease." Any and all of these things and other fancies innumerable as the phantasies of the human brain, have had, are having and will have their turn with the little molecules that are slumbering within us when the call comes for mobilization.

Meanwhile it is interesting for you and me, who have the molecules under control, to watch the other fellow make a show of himself unconsciously, because he doesn't know just what is the matter with him. Just at the time of writing this here in the United States of America, the political microbe is becoming painfully manifest and about next Friday or Saturday at Chicago its most intense manifestation will occur. After that he who is immune may easily prove my theory by watching from his enviable view point, the wave of political fever that is going to sweep over the continent, and will radiate from Porkopolis to the Pacific and all round about.

Three-fourths of the people won't know what it is all about, but they will get all heated up over the matter and every man and woman thus affected will be willing that his neighbor should die for the good of the country, but as for himself he will have a fever at the mention of the name of one candidate and have a chill when the other is named, and if capable of a moment of sanity he may inquire what is the matter with himself—and the man up a tree knowing all about it will reply, "Microbes, Molecules, Bugs."

FRENCH HOLD POSITION AT FORT VAUX

GERMAN ATTACKS WITH LIQUID FIRE BEATEN BACK AT POSITION RECENTLY CAPTURED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, June 5.—All morning the Germans have been making desperate attempts to regain the position at Fort Vaux recently retaken by the French. All the attacks were preceded by an assault with liquid-fire projectors. These failed. The clay shields provided by the French held back the flames and the machine guns swept down the advance. The Germans managed to gain a foothold for a moment in a ravine between Damloup and Fort Vaux, but were driven out by counter attacks.

IN SING SING PRISON

MRS. ELLA RICHARDSON TELLS WHAT SHE SAW IN CONVICT ESTABLISHMENT

Writing from New York, where she is at present attending the National Convention of Women's clubs, Mrs. Ella Richardson says:

"Just a line to let you know that I am out of prison. I never spent a happier day in my life than the one I spent inside the walls of Sing Sing prison. I went with the Christian Science reader who attends to the services in the prison. Two other friends went with us. When we reached the door of the prison we were treated with as much courtesy as though we were being received in a parlor in Glendale.

The ride along the Hudson river to Sing Sing is very beautiful. On the left appear many beautiful mansions of the millonaire colony of New York. These are lovely homes, sandwiched in between golf links, woods and flowery banks. On the right are woods and flowers.

Services were held in the prison. When the hour for service arrived we walked through the iron gates to the chapel and were greeted on all sides by decently attired men, clean shapen and looking respectable. Many of them wore shirts of pretty shades; some had white shirts and becoming ties of their own choosing. All wore the regulation gray trousers.

Services are held in a chapel which is over the dining room. The audience was seated in the body of the hall and they did everything in their power to make us comfortable. They passed the songbooks and quarterlies and placed footstools for the ladies. They had gathered two immense bouquets for us, from the prison gardens, and placed them on the reader's desk.

After the service they distributed them among us. They gave the best they had. One hundred and fifty were in attendance. All were interested and attentive. One old man who is serving a life sentence told me he had not missed a service since the services were begun three years ago. Instead of feeling desirous of revenge on society as he once did he now felt nothing but love and pity and was doing all in his power to better the condition of those around him.

I saw one man from Los Angeles whom I knew there seventeen years ago. At one time this man did me a favor. I was glad to have this lovely act of kindness of his to tell and he appreciated having someone to praise him. Everyone was busy chatting about the good they were learning to do. We were all much interested in this phase of our visit and found it hard to tear ourselves away from the inmates.

Then we went the rounds. The yard is no larger than the Pacific avenue school ground; yet there 16,000 men have to take their exercise. I entered one of the cells and had the door closed. It felt strange to be behind the bars. When dinner was served we were interested in seeing the little tables, scarcely more than desks, at which the prisoners sat on small stools. All the prisoners in dining face in the same direction. I believe that the authorities are now replacing these tables with larger ones, which will make the diningroom appear more sociable. Fourteen thousand men are fed in this room at once.

The cooking is done in large nickel kettles by means of steam. At the end of each table is a 10-gallon bucket of mulligan stew. The prisoners were served in large bowls. They had plenty of bread made from a cheap grade of flour, very dark in color and tasteless. The coffee served them deserved any other name than that by which it was called. I admired, however, the copper boiler in which it was made.

The work in the school interested me very much. The writing samples exhibited progressive improvement. I was deeply impressed with the idea that grew on me as I spoke to those unfortunate beings that they were only boys of a larger growth. Most of them had been in reform schools. The men themselves said that the best work that could be done by those interested in reform would be to help mothers to keep their chidlren, not to take them away from them. Home influence they were persuaded was best in the long run.

The work shops were interesting. I did not see the twenty men waiting for death in the electric chair; but I heard their voices as I sat in the chair itself and had the nine buckles of the straps fastened on me.

There are pictures in the prison which show some of their amusements—lectures, plays and pageants.

When I gave them some of our Peace Pageant cards of Pacific Avenue school they praised the work and said that was beginning at the right end—working with the children. "For God's sake help those mothers to care for their children," said one man. I left this place of confinement impressed more and more that the home is the true place for reform and for giving help.

—ELLA RICHARDSON.

LIGHT ON SCRIPTURE

DR. A. J. FROST ILLUMINATES DIFFICULT PASSAGES OF THE BIBLE

The Bible Conference at the Presbyterian church grew in power and interest as the sessions progressed.

Dr. A. J. Frost on Saturday afternoon gave in part the result of more than forty years of Bible study, on some of the difficult passages of the Book. He chose many texts, giving only touches of light on them that they might inspire further study.

The first verse of Genesis assumes the eternal existence of God, his omnipotence, omnipresence, wisdom, absolute freedom, and goodness, denies atheism, polytheism, pantheism and fatalism. If we believe this verse there is no difficulty in believing all the Bible.

When God sent forth Noah and his sons the command was given them to replenish the earth, the same command was given to Adam and Eve, as they went out of the garden. As there was a destroyed race back of Noah and his sons, so much there have been a destroyed race back of Adam and Eve.

A young woman missionary brought the light on the thirteenth verse of the sixty-eighth Psalm, "Though ye have lien among the pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with silver and her feathers with yellow gold." The flat house tops of the Orient are used for storage places for the discarded metals and earthenware pots. To avoid the heat of the day the doves seek shelter in them. With the setting of the sun they come forth, the rays of light fall upon them, causing their wings and feathers to look like silver and gold.

The prophet Isaiah speaking of the Messiah said: "And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death." The true translation is "They appointed him with the wicked but with the rich man was his tomb."

Speaking of Job as a perfect man does not mean that he was without sin but that he was blameless.

Jonah was not swallowed by a whale but by a great fish prepared of God for his purposes.

To be as wise as a serpent and as harmless as a dove was the instruction of Jesus as he sent out his disciples. The prudence of the serpent, whenever possible avoiding controversy, is the wisdom here commended.

Light was thrown upon many oth-

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JUNE 5, 1916

WHERE WORK ATTRACTS PEOPLE

It is worth while now and then to take a look at conditions outside of our own center. It is worth while to learn what conditions prevail in other places in order that we may understand just how we stand in the eyes of the world. There is doubtless more or less growth in California; but there are other places where growth is so marked that to compare the normal slow growth of this State to those places is absurd.

Detroit is one of the places to which people have recently been attracted on account of the demand for labor. There the influx of people who have flocked to a center where work is abundant is so great that there are not enough houses in the city to accommodate them.

Attention is drawn to this condition by the suggestion of the Detroit Federation of Labor that the United States government should allow the buildings at Fort Wayne to be occupied by citizens and their families until such time as conditions there are relieved by the completion of houses now in course of construction.

There is little doubt that the federal government will lend a willing ear to the needs of the increased population of Detroit and the congestion will be relieved. That is not the important point, although it is important. The point worth considering is that work is so plentiful in Detroit that thousands of people are without housing accommodations.

Builders are loath to undertake to supply the demand for houses because just at present everything in the way of building material is at the crest of the price wave. When present conditions modify and prices fall again as they inevitably will the houses built at the present time, costing from 25 to 50 per cent more that what is reasonable, will come into competition with new houses built when prices have fallen and the 1916 buildings will then become a losing venture.

Naturally the people of Detroit will find a solution for their own problem; but it may be well for those who reside in this section of the country to understand that conditions are not backward all over the United States.

COMING CONVENTION DAYS

Those who have seen Chicago under the excitement of a big national convention know that during the next few days that wonderful city will be worth living in to those who like being in the center of national life. There the better part of national interest will center from this time along to the moment when the big Republican convention decides what particular candidate shall be its standard-bearer. Chicago is both a windy city and a noisy city. The wind at times whirls round the tall Masonic building with a vehemence that makes walking uncomfortable. Its elevated railway rattles and groans as the trains pull up at the numerous stations of the Loop. Its newsboys are as vociferous and enterprising as those of New York and the great city that rose up on the mudflats of Lake Michigan is always interesting and picturesque.

This wonderful center of human life with its 3,000,000 polyglot inhabitants will be the noisiest place in the world these days, unless one should except Verdun. There will be as many big political guns in Chicago for the two conventions as the Germans and French have on the Verdun front and they will roar with as much vigor and just as incessantly.

The convention crowds are already assembling. Escorted by bands, shouted at by megaphones, sung to by choral bands and yelled at by simple noise-makers the delegates have begun to file into the city. By Wednesday Chicago will be swollen with people who are eager to see the fun of a national convention.

There are 985 delegates to the Republican convention. There are also 985 alternates. There are also nearly 1000 delegates to the Progressive convention; 20,000 women workers for the ballot, mostly out-of-town suffragists, and there will also be countless thousands of bystanders and lookerson.

The lobbies of the loop hotels are already so choked with people that it looks as though there would be no more room for them and yet half has not arrived. In the downtown hotels every bit of furniture has been removed from the lobbies. This is the result of past experiences. No flower pots, vases or chairs will occupy space where the enthusiasts will love to gossip; neither can those who wax warm in their debates resort to chairs as arguments.

It will be remembered that at one great national convention a crowd was precipitated into a noted fountain that occupies the center of the palm room of one famous hotel. Others desiring to achieve notoriety, if not fame, took to wading in the fountain basin. This year the fountain is all boarded up and looks as if prepared against some possible Zeppelin raid.

The Coliseum, where the Republican hosts will assemble, and the Auditorium, where the Progressive hosts will gather, are all ready for their guests. Tickets for the Republican convention were at the biggest premium they have ever been for such a gathering. There were offers of $350 for a single ticket admitting the holder to the expected four daily sessions. Such tickets, however, are scarce. About 10,000 people will seek admission into the charmed circle in vain. The Coliseum has 12,400 seats.

All along Michigan avenue a host of badge sellers is reaping a harvest. Badges, banners, pictures and souvenirs are selling with a great demand. The big delegations are expected to arrive from Monday on. New York's crowd will arrive that day and will make things lively. Meanwhile the steam-roller is in action and expectancy hangs like a cloud over the multitudes.

WOMEN'S PARTY ACTIVITY

In these days when the struggle for presidential nominations is agitating the land the women are active in bringing their claims for recognition before the members of all the parties. There is no doubt, as they claim, that the women are a powerful factor in the political life of the country. In Chicago more than 20,000 women are assembled to extend their influence throughout the two big conventions that are to be held there this week. That they will impress both Republicans and Progressives with a sense of the power of the woman's party, there seems little doubt. There is no hall in Chicago, outside of the Auditorium and the Coliseum, where the two conventions are to be held, that is big enough to hold the women; so numerous overflow meetings are being held throughout the city.

Miss Alice Paul, national chairman, opened the proceedings today but she will be superseded by a representative from one of the States where women have votes. All the prominent women suffragists in the country are in Chicago at present, it would seem.

Meanwhile the fight for votes for women is going on fiercely all over the country. In Iowa today (Monday, June 5) that question is dividing attention at the polls with the hot fight among Republicans for the nomination for governor. In many localities woman suffrage has the strongest hold on public interest. The last Iowa legislature, which passed the suffrage amendment for the second time, forced the vote on suffrage and if the women win they will have a chance to cast their votes for the presidential nominee in November, as well as for State and County officials.

The battle in Iowa is the climax of a long fight for equal rights. In 1882 the suffrage amendment passed the legislature but failed in the next session. Speaking campaigns have been organized all over the different states and the battle for the suffrage will not be lost if energy and intelligence can win it. The suffrage leaders are confident that they will carry Iowa and they also feel confident that they will so far influence the national conventions that they will perhaps get a suffrage declaration in the platforms of both the Republicans and the Progressives.

MRS. ELLA RICHARDSON SAYS FEDERATION URGES BIRD PROTECTION

Writing from New York, where she is at present as a delegate to the National Convention of Woman's clubs, Mrs. Ella Richardson says that the convention voted to observe the birthday of John Burroughs, the famous naturalist, as "Bird Day." Various speakers urged the necessity of teaching children that birds are useful adjuncts to the garden and to the field and that it is wrong to make targets of them. Others argued the need for teaching children to know birds and to love them.

Tree-planting was another subject that attracted much attention. Local federations were urged to organize planting days and the teaching of boys and girls to plant trees. No district can have too many trees. They ameliorate the climate and help to preserve the moisture in the soil. By teaching the children to love trees and to plant them there will be a considerable lessening of the danger of destruction by fire. Children who have seen the trees grow and have helped to plant them will never throw matches carelessly into brushwood or light picnic fires and forget to extinguish them.

Mrs. Richardson suggests that November 6 be set aside as Tree-planting day in the valley. She says that each year trees should be planted on this date. She also suggests that April 22 should be another date for tree planting. If everyone will plant a tree on these two dates by and by the valley, now beautiful, will be ten times more so. All that is necessary is co-operation. Let all work together for this good cause and help to beautify still more the lovely district in which we dwell.

IN MEMORIAM

Ida Wardell entered the higher life
May 30th, 1916.
"I am so tired," her wan lips
breathed faintly,
Yet not so low but the dear Father heard,
And to the regions where gather the saintly
Quickly he flashed the small pitiful word.
Then noble souls to a mansion went straightway Writing thereon "Here the weary find, rest,"
Sped they then thence to the beautiful gaitway
To welcome her soul to the land of the blest.
She was a staff to her dear aged mother,
Mother to those who were long motherless;
Now though her task has devolved
on another,
Still is her influence with them to bless.
She was so "tired." Oh! grudge not her resting,
Think of the happiness she has attained;
Think of the heights which her glad feet are cresting,
Think of the friends and instructors she's gained.
Prophets, philosophers, poets, musicians,
All the great masters of science and art;
Never an ailment to summon physicians,
Never a sorrow to sadden the heart.
The dear Lord will solace the sorrowing stricken,
There's never a trouble His touch cannot heal;
O how their sad hearts with rapture would quicken
Could they but hear Heaven's chimes 'round her peal.
Comfort them, Lord, in the hour of their grieving,
Banish the shadows and show them the light;
Teach them how transient is all earth's bereaving,
Gone like the dews of a sweet summer sight.

WHAT ONE READS

It sometimes occurs that in reading a most indifferent book a sentence here and there will strike deep and live long. Most books have gold in them if we but take time to find it. The other day in running my eye somewhat carelessly over a page, this statement arrested my attention, "Consequences have no pity." I lingered with the words and they seemed to be made up of letters of fire. "Consequences have no pity." I know it and so do you. Consequences are nature's harvest. They are daily assurances that God's laws go right on operating whether we want them to do so or not. The young man is reaping the consequences of wasted hours back farther in his life. The flagrant transgressor is facing every morning consequences he would like to escape but cannot. They have no pity, no tender feelings; they do not ask whether they shall come or stay. They are as sure to visit us as the sun is to roll up in the sky tomorrow morning. What we need to know is that consequences can be changed by changing causes. If a farmer wants corn in his field instead of Canada thistles he knows what to do. The law of cause and effect is at work everywhere, and no man can change it. It is one of the most merciful laws God ever gave. If we observe it we shall be abundantly rewarded.

PEACE PAGEANT

There has been a very large sale of tickets for the Peace Pageant, which is to be held Saturday, June 10, at the Pacific Avenue playground. From present indications the pageant is to be attended by a most gratifying audience. In the children's competition for prizes for the sale of tickets there has been great activity. The prizes are exhibited in the window of Mrs. Eudemiller's store on Brand boulevard and should prove a great stimulus to the children to sell tickets. Up to the present Roscoe Puffer has sold the highest number and various others are selling considerable numbers. There is still plenty of time for other children to get in and compete for the prizes. The time for the close of this competition has been extended to Thursday night.

PICNIC AT GRIFFITH PARK

The happiest time in the life of a boy or girl is the first graduation, and the "A8 Class" of the Intermediate School of Glendale, is looking forward to that event on June 16. As a foretaste of that happy day, this large class, numbering 96, was the guest of the Parent-Teacher association of the Third Street school at Griffith park, Saturday, June 3.

A happier and a jollier crowd of young people would have been hard to find, as they wended their way on McNary's two large hay wagons and several autos kindly loaned by a number of the parents.

The delights of the park were thoroughly enjoyed in baseball, climbing "Bee Rock" and watching the feeding of the animals at 3 p. m. But the most enjoyable feature of the picnic was the two long tables in white and gold, the class colors, groaning under the feast of good things that met their eyes, when they were called to dinner. To give you a faint idea of what those 85 hungry boys and girls (for the whole class was not present) could eat, saying nothing of the appetites of the 11 teachers present, were 400 rolls, 400 weiners, 22 large cakes and 8 gallons of potato salad and 2 gallons of olives, besides 10 gallons of lemonade.

Everything passed off merrily, the boys and girls found enjoyments in the woods, and their homeward journey was enlivened by songs and class yells.

The success of this interesting event was due to the untiring efforts of the committee: Mrs. R. W. Meeker, president of Third Street school Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. Frederick Baker and Mrs. R. W. Mottern, and the chaperones, Mesdames Chas. Hutchinson, Kathryn Bennett, I. J. Reynolds, Hinckley and Brawn. The following teachers were present: Principal R. D. White, the Misses Noble, Mallory, Midcalf, Hunter, Weatherby, Woolridge, Jackson and Jones, and Messrs. Polley and Clark.

LUNCHEON AND SHOWER

One of the most charming social functions of the past week was the pink luncheon and shower given by Miss Amy Bowerfind, of 512 S. Brand Blvd., Tropico, Tuesday afternoon, May 30, in honor of Miss Maysie McCann, who on June 14 will become the bride of Mr. Edwin Stauffacher.

At one o'clock the guests were seated at small tables, each centered with crystal baskets of pink gladiolas and fern fronds. The favors represented the same flower and on the pink place cards were written appropriate and original verses. A dainty three-course luncheon carried out the same color scheme.

Following this five hundred furnished a pleasing diversion, the score cards being decorated with brides. The high honors went to Mrs. Clarence Peck of Fullerton and the consolation to Miss Clara Provolt, while the honored guest received a beautiful cut dish.

The shower was presented in an original manner to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Helen Withey of Hollywood and sung by Miss Mattie Belle Provolt. The words were written by Mrs. Robert Morris, who led the march carrying a beautiful Japanese tray, which was placed in front of the bride-elect while each guest in turn deposited a gift upon it.

Miss Bowerfind was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Scott W. Johnson, Mrs. A. E. Boyce, Mrs. James Stone and Mrs. Nellie Withey of Hollywood. The guests included Miss Maysie McCann and her mother, Mrs. Genevera McCann, Madames Robert Morris, George Eley, Clarence Peck, Joseph Stagner, James Flint, Arline Hallahan, and the Misses Anna Woodberry, Mattie B. Provolt, Pauline Scholz, Cecelia Wilson, Helen Withey, Athena Purt, Birdie Shropshire, Dorothy Gilson, Gertrude Champlain, Harriet Wells, Grace Crampton, Bess Phillips, Agnes Frostick, Bess Provolt, Olga Purt, Lillian Shropshire, Clara Provolt, Ethel Land.

WANTED—57 varieties of citizens to attend the rally at Chamber of Commerce, Monday, 8 p. m., June 5. 242t2

er difficult passages of scripture but we most come to the next speaker of the afternoon. Dr. Howard W. Kellogg of Occidental College, gave his masterful message, "Life in the Blood." "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission. "Thou shalt surely die"—God. "Thou shall not surely die"—the Serpent.

God chose Life for man, guided by the devil man chose Death. The struggle of the ages is between the Lord of Life and the King of Death.

In sin is death where is life? The word "nephesh" which is translated "soul in 456 passages is also translated "life" in 99. This is the physical life, for animals share it with man. It is this life that is poured out at death. It is this life at which sin strikes. The Scriptures are explicit in the location of this life, "The life is in the blood." God's teaching for his chosen people the Jews is, "You by sin have forfeited your life. Justice alone demands your life. Love overleaps justice and you are permitted to take the blood of an animal and, by pouring it out upon an altar, confess that your own blood should flow."

The way of salvation has always been the same, the way of faith. The blood of Christ forever took away the blood of bulls and goats. Cain's offering was rejected and Abel's accepted because he would not accept salvation by grace, and shed the blood of the lamb that lay at his door as an acknowledgement of his sin. He would not shed the blood of a lamb but he would shed the blood of his brother, because he had a murderer's heart. All the sacrifices covered sins until He should come who would forever take them away.

The Savior shares our flesh and blood that through death He may bring to naught Satan, who has the power of death, "and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Substitution for the sinner is a subject of divine revelation throughout the sacred Word. There is no room for atonement by blood in any mandevised religion.

"Fools make a mock at sin," sinners in all ages from Cain to now have mocked at the blood of sacrifice. They say: "There's too much blood in it for me."

When Moses and Elijah talked with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration they spoke of "his decease which he was about to accomplish at Jerusalem." The blood of Christ will admit to heavenly glories, or it will forever bar the way; sin which strikes at the life must be atoned for by life.

LA CRESCENTA

Mr. Chambers, who has resided on Prospect avenue for the past few months, left last week to move to Los Angeles.

Mr. M. S. Gordon, who several months ago left our valley to go to Palm Springs, returned last Tuesday for a two-day visit. He was warmly greeted by his many friends of this valley.

J. E. Jones, Mrs. McDaniel C. Jones and wife were Sunday visitors of Mr. Van Cleave of Los Angeles avenue. Mr. Van Cleave is residing in the Bertrand cottage for the time being.

Sunday afternoon Elmer Adam, Misses Ethel Lewenstein, Gladys Thompson and Dorothy Cookson enjoyed a horseback ride to Sunland and back to Glendale. Strange to relate, none of the ladies attended high school next day.

Friday evening Messrs. Lea Wise, W. Clarke, T. Hopping, L. Sherb, and A. Wipple started on a trip to Tejunga. They reached their destination about 11 p. m. that evening. Every minute of the trip was enjoyed by all. As all possible accidents were guarded against, they reached home without a mishap.

Mr. Halloway, who for the past few months has lived in the Nettleton cottage, moved to Lankershim at the beginning of this week.

Our honest real estate dealer, Mrs. V. B. Claflin, says that the wind doesn't blow in La Crescenta. However, she is having her sleeping porch enclosed with glass. She didn't state why.

The Fairmount Hotel is certainly getting to be a popular resort. The following are the guests that have been staying at the hotel during the past week: Mrs. M. G. Eshman, Mrs. A. Crutcher, Mrs. H. H. Kirchkloff, Mrs. D. Richardson, Mrs. N. More, Mrs. I. S. Rowkey, Mrs. Geo. Grithiff, Mrs. M. S. Hawley, Miss Gertrude Phelps, Miss Eva Shoemaker and Mrs. K. Bashford, all of Los Angeles; Mrs. M. Steger of Chicago, Mr. B. G. Mechen and wife of Pasadena, Mrs. Sherman and daughters of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon T. Bent of Los Angeles, Dorothy Beckwith of Glendora and Mae Anderegg of Glendora.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Knight and Mrs. Murray of La Canada were guests of Carl T. Adam of Fairmount Hotel, Sunday, May 28. After a Welsh rarebit supper they were entertained with the music of various stringed instruments, played by Mr. Fritz Adam, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adam.

Last Tuesday most of the young people of La Crescenta enjoyed a motor ride in Mr. Brown's auto truck, to Griffith Park and back.

A week ago yesterday evening forty friends and neighbors of Mrs. Hall gave a surprise party in honor of her birthday. The evening was spent in games and a social time. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mr. Deuschler and family moved back to Los Angeles last week. Mr. Deuschler has worked on the Kramer ranch for the past four years and through his work has certainly helped to add to the appearance of the place.

LITTLELANDS

Dr. Rebecca White and Mr. and Mrs. Warfield arrived home Monday from Atolia. Mr. Warfield returned the last of the week.

Mrs. McCue was a visitor to Glendale last Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton and mother have come to reside in Littlelands. They purchased the house across the road from the Fred Johnson place on Pine street. Mr. Ingram has been occupying the place for the past year.

Mrs. Wakefield and mother and daughter are occupying the E. Deming Smith property on Pine street. They will probably be here all summer.

A party of friends of Miss McKee, consisting of Miss Peebles and sister and Mr. and Mrs. Kirk, have been occupying her house a few days this week, and are thoroughly enjoying their outing.

To prevent mildew grape vines should be sprinkled with sulphur when the grapes are in bloom. It is a good plan to sprinkle under the plants on a hot day, as the hot sun on the sulphur forms fumes that kill the fungi.—Home Croft culb.

Almost 100 new books were added to the local library last week by the county librarian, Miss Celia Gleason. Anyone has the privilege of obtaining almost any book published by filling out one of the blanks provided for the purpose and leaving same with the librarian, Miss Brissenden.

Bee Club

Owing to the called meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening, the Bee club adjourned its session till after the Board of Trade meeting, immediately after which the president of the Bee club, Mrs. Dean, called the members to order. The president made a statement as to the report of the bee inspector, Mr. De Sillem. Assurance was given that the matter of the diseased bees would be satisfactorily adjusted. A letter from Bixby, editor of the Western Honey Bee, stated that the matter had received the attention of the Bee association. There will be no further action till more information is receivd from the inspector. Mr. Wright related an interesting incident illustrating a method for augmenting one's apiary. Other interesting points pertaining to this cult were discussed by different members, all freely taking part in the discussion.

Mr. Fitzgerald of the Fitzgerald Music Co., has been busy at his ranch since Friday, attending to his trees. He expects soon to build his new home, plans for which are already made.

Board of Trade

Monday evening there was a called meeting of the Board of Trade to consider the names of new members, of which there were six and also to reconsider the decision made at th last regular meeting to hold a Colony picnic at Manzanita park. After the above decision an invitation was received from the Sunland Chamber of Commerce inviting Littlelands to join with them at Monte Vista park. After considerable discussion it was decided to tender a letter of thanks to Sunland and invite them to picnic with us at our pretty little Manzanita park. We met with Sunland last year and it was the decision of the majority that we picnic at home this year. To this end a committee on arrangement was appointed.

Mr. Schmerer has opened a jewelry and watch repairing business in the post office building, occupying part of the north side of the store.

After a rather lengthy absence, Mr. S. Haverstick is at home again ready for any duty that may call.

We are advised by Mr. C. H. Clark that the Danish Musical club will give another of their delightful entainments at Bolton hall in the near future.

Some necessary work was done at Manzanita park last week, to get it in readiness for the Colony picnic that occurs there the Fourth. This labor is voluntary on the part of several of our residents and is duly appreciated.

Home Croft Meeting

There was considerable discussion last Friday evening of the very grave danger from fire that may result from the encroachment of the dense growth of underbrush on the vacant lots in the Colony. This is felt to be a very serious matter by the entire population of he community. Also there was further discussion as to a suitable name for our town, and as to the advisability of forming a water district. That the present pipe system will not be able to withstand the great pressure of water very mush longer was given as the opinion of some of our residents who have looked into the matter. What's the matter with the Improvement Fund? At the prices paid for land there should be sufficient money to make any needed repairs in the water system or anything else.

Mr. Harold Plater has left Littlelands and has gone to Mexico. We are without particulars as to his trip.

Town Meeting

At the town meeting last Tuesday evening a short Memorial Day program was given as follows:

A Poem.....Mr. Ashby
An Address.....Mr. W. G. Paul
A Reading.....Mr. G. H. Clark
A Song (written by Mr. Wieman)
..... Male Quartette

Good and son Douglas of Piedre and on Wednesday Miss Alpha Clement, Miss Barbara Mitchell and Miss Margaret Heymalkling of Glendale were her guests. On Saturday Mrs. Livingstone left for Calexico to visit with her mother, Mrs. E. D. Good, for several weeks.

INDUCED

Visitor—But what inducements do you offer large industries to come here?

Uncle Eben (viciously)—See those five old fellers on the porch there? If you listened to their talk you'd know that any one of 'em thinks he could manage the business of the Standard Oil company and the Government at the same time!

Dare to be true; nothing can need a lie, a fault which needs it most, grows two thereby.—Herbert.

MORE SELF-CONTROL

To most people, says an exchange, self-control means the control of appearances and not the control of realities. This is a radical mistake, and must be corrected, if we are to get a clear idea of self-control, and if we are to make a fair start in acquiring it as a permanent habit.

If a man is ugly to me, and I want to knock him down, and refrain from doing so simply because it would not appear well, and is not the habit of the people about me, my desire to knock him down is still a part of myself, and I have not controlled myself until I am absolutely free from that interior desire. So long as I am in hatred to another, I am in bondage to my hatred; and if, for the sake of appearances, I do not act or speak from it, I am none the less at its mercy, and it will find an outlet wherever it can do so without debasing me in the eyes of other men more willing than I am to be debased. My selfish desire to injure the man I hate, is counterbalanced by my selfish desire to stand well in the eyes of other men. There can be no true self-control so long as either form of selfishness dominates my actions. The control of appearances is merely outward repression, and a very common instance of this may be observed in the effort to control a laugh.

TESTING ESKIMO DOGS

One of the events of the late winter in Alaska is the dog-team race from Nome across the Seward Peninsula to Candle and return, 412 miles, over a snow trail and usually through snowstorms. This year four dog-teams, fifty-eight animals in all, entered the race.

The contest originated nine years ago in a desire to improve the speed and stamina of that most useful burden-bearer of the North, the Eskimo dog. He is the mail carrier to the snow-bound towns of the Arctic; the leader in the rescue of storm-bound travelers; the bearer of the prospector's treasures, and the unfailing means for transportation where all others fail.

As much wolf as dog, with most of the characteristics of the wild half, with a sagacity that his brother of the temperate zone does not possess, endowed with a coarse-grained nature that sometimes leads him into trouble, he is a problem in control and guidance that no novice has solved. The American language does not seem to be forceful enough to move him. Russian alone is equal to the task, and Russian is hard to learn. In spite of difficulties, the expert drivers of the far North have reduced dog-team management to a science.

ENGINE PICTURE COLLECTORS

Collecting photographs of old locomotives is a fad of some prominent American business and professional men. Pictures are traded and high prices are paid for originals. One of the largest collectors is John W. Merrill, of Boston, who has over 3,000 pictures. It has taken him fifteen years to get them together. He keeps them in a safe which he purchased for the especial purpose.

Chas. B. Cheney, a civil engineer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has over 4,000 pictures. For twenty-five years he has been obtaining drawings and engravings of old locomotives, and he has traveled extensively over the country photographing locomotives of new types as they appeared.

The "DeWitt Clinton," the first locomotive of the New York Central, was characterized by its tall smokestack, and many other locomotives of that period had the same characteristic.

It is a strange fact that none of the railroad companies have complete collections of pictures of their locomotives from the earliest days, and when they wish to make photographs they are obliged to go to the collectors.

IDENTIFYING WOOD

More than 1,000 samples of wood are annually submitted to the forest products laboratory of Forestry Service at Madison, Wis., for identification. The records vary in importance, from one case in which a man desired to know from what kind of wood a particular chess pawn was made to that of a large contractor who had thousands of cross-ties rejected by a railroad on the ground that they were red oak instead of white oak as specified.

As a rule experienced lumbermen can readily distinguish between species commonly handled, but when a peculiar specimen shows some abnormal growth or discoloration they are in doubt. Experts at the laboratory examine specimens under the microscope, which shows any characteristics not visible to the naked eye.

Distinguishing marks of over 400 native and 100 foreign woods have been studied and carefully arranged in systematic order for use in identifying samples.

"There goes one of the most successful dentists in this town, and yet he knows little about dentistry."

"What's the secret of his success, then?"

"He keeps the magazine table in his waiting-room strictly up to date."

War is the most futile and ferocious of human follies.—John Hay.

THE SLOW PACE OF TRUTH

One of our dailies reported but recently the conclusions of a university professor. This professor made the statement that truth travels at the rate of two and one-half yards per second, flattery at the rate of from 400 to 500 yards per second, while scandal travels at the rate of 1000 yards per second. The calculations were based on observations made in and around the university. It is doubtful if the professor can prove scientifically the accuracy of his findings, though there are multitudes who will be ready to agree that he is about right. Gossip travels with the speed of a hare and is all over a community before truth gets started. The tongue has been aptly likened to a little fire, which soon becomes a great blaze; but the comparison can be carried out only when the tongue is unruly and spreading unsavory and malicious reports. The gossip-monger is to be pitied. He is a defective. He is sowing seed, the baneful effects of which no man can tell. If truth travels slowly that is another reason why we should scatter it broadcast.

COST OF GIRLS' EDUCATION

The Alumnae Quarterly, of Smith College, has collected the facts showing that the average cost of a girl's education at this institution is $765 a year. Some of the girls get along on less than $400. There are seven who are spending more than $1,500 a year, while 236 maintain themselves on $750.
